Sam- hi, just now got your follow up message. Determinations about liability at the CFAC site will be part of the Superfund process as we move forward. I also wanted to clarify that the public comment period is open through June 2.

Hi Sam—we have not received any information from Glencore regarding demolition or salvage work at CFAC. There are not any approvals from EPA needed prior to the demolition of the facilities. The company would need to obtain any applicable state or local approvals/permits related to demolition. Under Superfund, a comprehensive site investigation of the site would take place to identify specific cleanup needs.
